Why TrainCaster LMS?

In many ways most learning management systems are alike. They deliver online training courses. They provide you with training reports. They let you manage user accounts, and many even let you automate some of your business processes.

TrainCaster LMS is not like other learning management systems.

You use your training content, not ours.

We are not subject matter experts in everything you do; we are software development experts, and it shows in our LMS. We focus on giving you all of the tools that you need to start and manage all of your training initiatives – whether that means online training, classroom training, third party training, on-the-job training, or SCORM 2004 training.

You have a single source of training data.

Your TrainCaster LMS database supports all types of training, so you can generate your training reports from a single source. Drill down capabilities let you get the information you need easily. You can quickly see which trainees or departments have not yet met their training requirements, helping you manage and track training compliance throughout your organization. Additionally you can download reports in CSV format for use in other applications like Excel.

More than just authoring tools.

It's quick and easy to create your online courses, quizzes and surveys using our PowerPoint and MS Word conversion utilities, or by using the built-in WYSIWYG editor, or by uploading HTML that you've created using a third party editor. But you can also run real-time, detailed training reports that show you the compliance status of departments throughout your organization. You can use pre-training assessments to automatically assign courses to trainees based on their day-to-day job responsibilities. You can store additional training resources, best practices, standard operating procedures, and manuals. You can even upload files related to specific trainees, like instructor evaluations, performance reviews, and training goals and objectives.
